

75,000 Hard Coal Workers On Strike In Pennsylvania

New York, May 31 (P) — Pennsylvania's 75,000 hard coal miners struck at 12:01 a. m. (EDT) after union and operator negotiators failed to agree on a new contract, shutting down the state's anthracite fields.

An AFL United Mine Workers representative at the Lehigh Valley Coal company in Hazleton, Pa., declared that reports from the hard coal districts showed that "the whole region is idle."

"There are no collieries in the anthracite fields working," said Jack Reno, chairman of the grievance committee, Hazleton shaft, of the Lehigh company.

Meanwhile a high government official in Washington who could not be quoted directly said President Truman had been counseled by his advisers against seizing the mines.

The official said the advice was based on the hope that the anthracite industry would shortly agree to terms similar to those in the government contract which ended the soft coal shutdown.

Since the miners did not work on the Memorial day holiday the walk-out — the nation's second major coal strike of the year — technically started 24 hours before the expiration of the old pact at midnight last night. The union had refused an operators' request for a 30 day contract extension on a retroactive pay basis and subsequent proposals for extension of 15 days and for one week.

The miners watched the deadline pass with no indication of returning to the collieries until a contract was signed between the operators and their AFL United Mine Workers. Traditionally, no contract has meant no work for the miners.

In the centers of the anthracite regions at Hazleton, Scranton, Wilkes-Barre and Pottsville, Pa., the union's district officials, who declined use of their names, predicted, with but one exception, that the walkout would be "100 per cent" effective.

One Scranton official predicted the miners would be back in the pits by Monday but would give no basis for his statement.

Maintenance work will continue as usual.

BULLETINS

Washington, May 31 (P)—Senator La Follette (Prog.-Wis.) flatly told the Congress today that it is now "Neither organized nor equipped to perform its main functions." He made this criticism in formally presenting to the Senate a sweeping program for reorganization and modernization of the entire legislative machinery.

Washington, May 31 (P)—President Truman said today he is still wholeheartedly in favor of the emergency strike-draft legislation he has asked of Congress. His proposal to induce men who strike against the Government, the President told reporters, has been grossly misrepresented and misunderstood.

It was not intended as a provision to draft labor, he said but to draft citizens in an emergency.

Washington, May 31 (P)—President Truman announced today he invited Marshall Stalin to visit Washington about 30 days ago, but Stalin declined because his doctors advised him against a long journey.

Washington, May 31 (P)—President Truman said today he will use every means in his power to keep the ships running in the event of a nation-wide Maritime strike.

Washington, May 31 (P)—Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., has submitted his resignation as this Government's representative on the United Nations Security Council, but President Truman said today he will refuse to accept it.

Washington, May 31 (P) — The Pearl Harbor committee heard testimony today that President Roosevelt telephoned Admiral Harold R. Stark the night of December 6, 1941, to say that Japanese-American relations were serious.

Deed to Local Property Filed
A deed, conveying title in two tracts of land on Steinwehr avenue from Mary Shade Aldinger and W. Bernard Aldinger, Chambersburg, to Harry M. and Marguerite Oyler, Gettysburg, and an agreement between Mr. and Mrs. Oyler and Charles P. Haller, Jr., Liberty township, for purchase by the latter of property on this street have been filed in the office of the register and recorder here.

The deed from the Chambersburg couple to Mr. and Mrs. Oyler lists the consideration as $11,500. The agreement for the purchase by Mr. Haller names a price of $17,850, and calls for a property extending along Steinwehr avenue a distance of 120 feet, with a depth of 170, with buildings and appurtenances.

Another deed records the transfer of seven acres in Berwick township from heirs of John H. H. Miller, Oxford township, to Stewart P. and Myrtle M. Mehning, Penn township, York county.

Mr. and Mrs. George Miller, Buford avenue, have moved to their newly erected cottage at Marsh Creek Heights along the Emmitsburg road. H. L. Null, Waynesboro, has purchased the former Miller cottage at the Heights.

Adams Electric Coop. Gets $50,000 Loan
The Rural Electrification Administration has approved a $50,000 loan to the Adams County Electric Cooperative, the local organization learned in a telegram from Washington today.

The loan will be used in all four counties, Adams, Franklin, York and Cumberland, served by the cooperative, officials said today, with the amount to be expended in extending service to more than 150 new families within the general area already served by the cooperative.

SEEK JOBS FOR "HANDICAPPED" WAR VETERANS
Reporting that two handicapped veterans were placed in jobs during May by the Gettysburg office of the United States Employment Service, Manager E. A. Crouse pointed out today that approximately 12 handicapped veterans seeking employment are still listed in local USES files. He issued an appeal to local employers to list job openings in their establishments with the USES in order to promote placement of these veterans.

Manager Crouse emphasized that the Selective Placement program of the USES is designed to match each handicapped veteran with a job he can perform efficiently despite his physical impairment.

A recent editorial in the National Legionnaire, official publication of the American Legion, pictures the employment problem of the handicapped veteran as follows:
Trained To Work
"Somewhere in your town, or perhaps in your office, plant or industry, there are jobs which can be capably filled by a war-handicapped veteran."

"It is altogether likely that there is also to be found in your community a handicapped veteran who needs that job or position, and who can fill it capably and satisfactorily."

"Much has been said of the undoubted ability of these handicapped men to compete with their able-bodied comrades in doing a full day's work. New techniques in training these handicapped men to take their place in the community as self-supporting producers have been employed in the armed forces, and when they discharge such a handicapped veteran into civilian life, he is usually prepared, physically, mentally and emotionally, to do a day's work to the satisfaction of both his employer and himself."

"But the fact seems to be that there has been a falling down on the part of those of us who are not handicapped in getting the handicapped man and the job together. Too many of these men—amateurs

Loss in Opening Fields
"One of the biggest sources of waste is in the tramping down of grain in the opening of fields," Rice said. "The nation loses annually enough wheat to feed 42,000,000 people for 100 days due to the necessary loss of opening the fields."

"Under the plan now worked out the owners of the self-propelled combines have agreed to open the fields of those farmers who wish the work done. After the field is opened conventional combines can cut out the centers without loss. The plan is operating nationally and it is estimated that 28,000,000 bushels of grain can be saved in this manner during the 1946 harvest season."

A. B. C. Williams, York Springs, and Philip Miller, Gettysburg R. D., are the two self-propelled combine owners who have agreed to the plan so far. Those wishing the service are to contact Mr. Rice, who is at (Please Turn to Page 6)

SELF-PROPELLED COMBINES TO AID IN SAVING GRAIN

O. C. Rice and Son, Biglerville farm machinery distributors, today announced that arrangements are being completed for a program of use of self-propelled combines in the county, by which it is hoped an average of 20 bushels of wheat in every 40 acre field may be saved.

"The world faces a food crisis far worse than anything experienced during the war, and it is important that farmers not only plant every acre possible, but also that they prevent waste and harvest every bushel," O. C. Rice said in announcing the campaign.

Because it is impossible to secure additional self-propelled combines, he has secured the cooperation of two of the three owners of the machines in the county and expects within the next day or two to contact the third owner, Rice said.

Many Unusual Items
Another example of early furniture is a cherry, broken arch corner cupboard with cut out shelves, displayed by Mr. Hess.

Among the chinaware on display are Staffordshire, Statter, Gaudy Dutch, bisque, and Dresden. Among the glassware is Stiegel, Sandwich, Jersey, Ohio, Bristol and Pennsylvania's own Lutz. There are thousands of pieces of pressed glassware in patterns.

Odd items include an old bellows for a fireplace. A spinning wheel is used by Mrs. A. C. Schlump of Norristown to give daily demonstrations of how to make thread out of flax. There's an old fashioned birth certificate, highly decorated, of a gentleman born in 1814.

Butter presses, cake cutters and candle molds are among other things on display. A number of music boxes are shown, including one in the form of an album which plays as one looks through the pages of the book. A set of black-

Memorial Day Sidelines
A second gentleman from Ohio—a 69-year-old Baptist evangelist from Akron—delivered an unscheduled Memorial Day address from the base of the National monument in the National cemetery about a half hour after former Governor Bricker completed his address at the rostrum. His gray-haired bride of two days sat nearby and listened with a handful of curious attracted by the forceful delivery and gestures of the stocky orator.

Afterward he explained to a reporter for The Gettysburg Times that his "oration"—which concluded with Lincoln's Gettysburg address and covered a great many of history's great figures before it reached its end—was one he composed himself and has been delivering over the land for the last 30 years.

MEMORIAL DAY PARADE BIGGEST IN MANY YEARS

As two silver airplanes circled overhead, dipping their wings in salute to the silent comrades who lie in the ground they hallowed on Cemetery Hill, Gettysburg's civic leaders, its patriotic organizations and nearly 1,000 school children gathered Thursday afternoon at designated points and marched to the National cemetery in the first peace-time observance of Memorial day since 1941.

The parade formed at 1:45 p. m. and promptly at 2:30 the column, headed by Grand Marshal LeRoy H. Winebrenner and his aides swung up Chambersburg street, through the square and out Baltimore street. Police on motorcycles, Sgt. W. Kurt Duhrkoff, in charge of the Gettysburg sub-station of the state police, and Borough Chief of Police Robert Harpster, led the way.

With the grand marshal were Assistant Marshals David A. Tawney and J. Richard Hershey, representing the Sons of Union Veterans and the veterans of World War II, respectively. All three were mounted on horseback. The colors and the color guard of the Gettysburg high school band, then the three majorettes and the band itself followed. They led the division of about 1,000 public and parochial school children, dressed in white, and carrying the flowers which later in the parade in the cemetery they were to strew on the graves of the national heroes. Superintendent of Schools Lloyd C. Keefeauver headed the school children.

Many Veterans in Line
Assistant Marshals Howard Williams and Richard Phiel, in uniforms of World War II and mounted on horses, led the second division. The Biglerville high school band and color guard marched immediately behind the assistant marshals, followed by the Gettysburg Girl Scout troops, Troops 2 and 3 of Littlestown, Troop 1 of East Berlin, the SSS and the Gettysburg Girl Reserves, Boy Scouts of the York-Adams area, the drum corps of Troop 79 and other Boy Scout units were next in line.

The recently reorganized Blue and Gray band, preceded by William I. Shields, secretary of the band and member of the Memorial Day committee, in an automobile, headed the several veteran organizations in the parade. The band made up in the excellence of its musical renditions anything it might have lost (Please Turn to Page 2)

R. C. TO TEACH SWIMMING HERE

Plans for swimming courses sponsored by the Adams county chapter of the Red Cross were announced today by Mrs. Elizabeth Pennington, assistant to the executive secretary.

First in the proposed series of courses will get underway Friday, June 7, at the Battlefield swimming pool about one-half mile south of here on the Baltimore road.

Miss Eleanor Berkebile, a student at Gettysburg college and a swimming instructor at Camp Nawakwa for the past several years, will be instructor for the course designed for youngsters of the county. The first lesson will begin at 10:30 o'clock next Friday morning. The classes will be limited to ten in each and the students will be divided between beginners aged six to eight, beginners eight or over and intermediates. A charge of $1 for six classes is being made by the instructor. Instruction will be given twice a week.

Those who wish to enroll are asked to notify the Red Cross at its office on East High street.

The Red Cross also plans to sponsor classes in swimming at Marsh Creek Heights, if sufficient persons wish to attend classes there. George Null, Greenmount, a student at Gettysburg college, will be the instructor if such a course is started.

A course for advanced swimmers will be started with Donald Egolf, Harrisburg, a student at Gettysburg college, as instructor if there are sufficient demands for the course, the Red Cross added. Egolf was a swimming instructor for many years in the Harrisburg area.

Mexican Bean Beetle Is Invading County

The annual invasion of Adams county by the Mexican bean beetle is under way, according to County Agent M. T. Hartman, who warned farmers and gardeners today to apply rotenone dust immediately.

"There are heavy deposits of eggs on the under side of the bean leaves," Mr. Hartman said. "Apply rotenone before the eggs hatch and destroy the beans," he warned.

The adult beetles, which Mr. Hartman said survive the winter and feed until they can deposit their eggs, have already done considerable damage, he said.

Memorial Services At Heidlersburg

BRICKER MUCH IMPRESSED BY CEREMONY HERE

"I've never seen a more beautiful or impressive sight." Former Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio, Gettysburg's Memorial Day speaker, declared as he watched Gettysburg public and parochial school children strew flowers over the flag-marked graves of more than 3,000 Civil war dead in the National cemetery Thursday afternoon.

The impression he expressed to Congressman Gross and others in his car at the cemetery was repeated in other words from the rostrum in the introduction to his Memorial Day address. Referring to the "beautiful expression of patriotic devotion," Mr. Bricker declared to the more than 3,000 gathered before the rostrum that he believed no one could witness the ceremony at the graves without becoming a "better citizen and more devoted American."

Introduced by Congressman Gross as "a great American and a proven statesman," Governor Bricker first paid tribute to "our heroic dead at Gettysburg and those who have fallen in all parts of the world. If we would honor them," he continued, "we must accept the challenge that comes to us from them."

Calls For Faith In God

Completing his prepared address and continuing beyond it, Governor Bricker declared this nation's "greatest step forward" was the adoption of the constitution with its wise safeguards against the dangers from the power "of autocracies, royalty and government itself." Referring again to the war dead being honored, Mr. Bricker declared: "Let us realize they fought to preserve these sacred rights. They had a great faith in America's liberties guaranteed in the constitution and a consuming faith in the divine guidance by God."

"America today needs to lay hold of the faith of the men on the battlefield and regain her faith in almighty God."

In the party on the rostrum were seven congressmen who accompanied Congressman Gross here for the occasion. For many it was their first trip to the battlefield.

Congressmen Here

With the congressional delegation were John W. McCabe, secretary to the Republican party in the House; Joe Bartlett, chief Republican page in the House and 12 other GOP page boys from the lower house of Congress.

The congressmen who made the trip were: George B. Schwabe and wife of Tulsa, Okla.; Charles W. Vursell and wife, Salem, Ill.; Charles A. Wolverton, Mechanicsville, N. J.; Howard Buffett, Omaha, Neb.; William H. Stevenson, LaCrosse, Wis.; George W. Gillie, Port Wayne, Ind.; and Dr. Arthur L. Miller, Kimball, Neb.

Colonel Thomas J. Frasley, of Emmitsburg, was awarded the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws by Southeastern university, Washington, D. C., at the commencement exercises at the Carlton hotel, Washington, D. C., on Wednesday evening.

Colonel Frasley was born and reared in Emmitsburg, the son of the late Oscar D. and Clara Hoke Frasley. He is a veteran of World War I and World War II. He joined the law faculty of Southeastern university in September, 1919, and has been engaged in teaching law since that date. He also practiced law in Emmitsburg for a number of years. On his return in November, 1945, from World War II during which he served as a member of the War department general staff, he was appointed by President Truman as an associate member of the Board of Veterans' appeals, U. S. Veterans' Administration, Washington, D. C.

During World War I, Colonel Frasley served with the 313th Infantry, 79th Division, and was later commissioned a lieutenant of infantry. He graduated from Mount Saint Mary's college, Emmitsburg, in 1915 and Dickinson School of Law, Carlisle, in 1919. He is a member of the bar of Maryland and the District of Columbia and has been admitted to practice before the United States Supreme court.

He traveled in Europe in 1927, had personal interviews and met personally European rulers, including (Please Turn to Page 2)

U.N. COUNCIL PONDERS SINS OF FRANCO

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

The United Nations Security Council committee which is handling the evidence on the sins of Generalissimo Franco—they call him El Caudillo in Spain—has been burning midnight oil over a mountain of documents in preparation for its report to the parent council.

It will be interesting to see what evidence is produced, because there are a good many aspects of the Generalissimo's government which are a mystery. For instance, one moot question is whether he still has great numbers of Republicans in prison. When I was in Spain January 1 I put the question to a government official and was told that all had been released excepting "blood prisoners," that is, those guilty of murder. However, no proof of this statement was offered and I know that foreign diplomats in Spain long had been trying unsuccessfully to get positive information on that point.

On Alert for Rebellion
Still there are some things which we do know in advance of the council report. One is that El Caudillo isn't equipped militarily to wage a war of aggression against any major nation. I was reliably informed that he had a standing army of about 700,000—and that's a lot of men. However, while it is fairly well equipped with light arms, it hasn't much in the way of warplanes, tanks or artillery. Madrid and other strategic points are protected by redoubts and trenches, and the French-Spanish frontier undoubtedly is fortified. Still, Franco's whole military and naval set-up is of a defensive nature.

It long has been clear that Franco is on the alert for any possible rebellion. It is equally obvious that if another civil war is precipitated in Spain he is prepared to deal with it on a formidable scale. Washington and London have wished to avoid such a terrible conflict which undoubtedly would multiply the horrors of the upheaval of 1936-9 when Franco overthrew the Republican government.

MEMORIAL DAY

through the failure of its new uniforms to arrive in time for Thursday's parade.

Members of Gettysburg Post No. 15, Veterans of Foreign Wars, numbering in their ranks many of the recently returned veterans of World War II as well as those who fought on foreign shores in World War I, marched behind the Blue and Gray band. With them were several members of their auxiliary.

The crack drum corps of the Harold H. Bair Post No. 14, American Legion, of Hanover, and the color guard of the Albert J. Lentz Post No. 202, American Legion, of Gettysburg, and more than 100 members of the post, followed in the line of march. Like the VFW, the Legion's ranks boasted not only the familiar blue and gold of Legion uniforms and civilian dress of older members, but there were 50 or more vets of the last war in line, in service uniforms. Auxiliary members also marched with the Legion.

Troop C, of the Pennsylvania National Guard, with its motorized equipment, and cars containing Sons of Veterans Reserve, former Governor John W. Bricker of Ohio, the Memorial Day speaker, and other guests and members of the committee, brought up the rear of the parade, one of the best in Gettysburg's history and the biggest Memorial Day parade in a number of years.

SEEK JOBS FOR

and those with other war disabilities—find themselves unable to connect with a job, despite their willingness and their ability to undertake such employment.

Need Cooperation
"This situation can be quickest cured by the willing cooperation of the able-bodied workers as well as the employers in locating jobs which can be done by these handicapped persons, and then seeing to it that a handicapped veteran is connected with that job."

"All of the evidence shows that these handicapped persons make good employees; their records of production, of skill, and of a minimum of time lost are reported to be just a bit better than for the able-bodied. Unless they are given their chance, we must admit that industry as an employer, and ourselves as comrades of these veterans, have failed in a mission we should perform promptly and willingly."

Despondent Goering Is Losing Weight

Nuernberg, May 31 (AP)—Herman Goering has fallen into a fit of despondency, refusing to discuss his war crimes case any longer with defense attorneys and slowly declining in weight.

The number one defendant before the international military tribunal also has seized every opportunity lately to remain away from court. The reason given publicly has been recurrence of attacks of an old case of sciatica.

Goering has lost ten pounds in the past week and now is down to 190. He weighed 225 pounds when apprehended after the fall of the Reich.

German attorneys said worry over the way his wife, Emmy, has to live now is a big factor behind Goering's sulk. He has learned the woman who once had castles and scores of servants now is living in a tiny room with one dress and one pair of shoes.

Goering reportedly has asked that his wife be moved from Neuhaus in the American zone to the British sector, without citing any specific reason.

England Ponders Bread Rationing

London, May 31 (AP)—Herbert Morrison, Lord President of the council, told the House of Commons today that Britain was preparing a system of bread rationing for emergency use and likened the world food situation to the black days of Dunkerque "when all the news was bad."

"The very blackness of the situation," he said during debate on Britain's food administration, "is calling forth forces which might make this the turning point in human history." Winston Churchill, British wartime Prime Minister and now leader of the conservative opposition, chided the labor government for its food administration, which he called short-sighted, and asked for an explanation of the recent resignation of Food Minister Sir Ben Smith.

"The great feeding grounds which nourished Germany as a whole lie to the east of the Iron curtain and food supplies have not been sent from there which belong to the population of Germany as a whole and should have been reserved for their nourishment," Churchill said, opening a debate.

New York, May 31 (AP)—A uniform price of $3.32 a hundredweight for May milk deliveries—the highest price on record for the month—is predicted by Dr. C. J. Blanford, administrator of the New York metropolitan milk marketing area.

U. S. SEEKING $700,000 IN KKK BACK TAXES

Atlanta, May 31 (AP)—The resurgent Ku Klux Klan, faced with a fight to retain its charter and a $700,000 bill from the tax collector, has become a primary issue in Georgia's torrid governor's race.

Gov. Ellis Arnall, who announced he would seek through judicial and possibly legislative channels to "dehood" the order, contends the Klan's chief political preoccupation is the governor's race.

For days the Arnall-backed candidate, James V. Carmichael, young business man and ex-legislator, has been attributing Klan sympathies to his opponents, ex-Governors Gene Talmadge and E. D. Rivers.

The admitted aim of the Klan is retention of the traditional "white Democratic primary" of Georgia, which the U. S. Supreme Court has said must go.

Seek Tax Arrears
Talmadge, who is campaigning on a program of "white supremacy," has said that he would welcome votes from the Klan or anyone else favoring circumvention of the Supreme Court's order through legislative action.

Rivers has not made Negro voting an issue, and has had nothing to say about the Klan. Carmichael, however, has accused him of close affiliation with the Klan in his administration.

Negroes have registered in large numbers to vote for the first time in the Democratic primary July 17. In Fulton (Atlanta) county, Negro registration is about 25,000 out of a total registration of 125,000.

Arnall has ordered the state legal department to try to revoke the Klan's charter. If that fails, he says he may call a special session of the legislature to restrict its activities.

The U. S. government filed the tax lien for alleged back taxes in the early twenties, when the Klan was in its heyday. The Georgia Grand Dragon, Dr. Samuel Green, says today's Klan isn't the same organization.

OPA UPS PRICE OF SHOES SOLD $5.50 OR LESS

Washington, May 31 (AP)—OPA today boosted prices 10 to 15 percent on shoes selling generally at $5.50 or less.

The increase, effective immediately on new shipments by manufacturers, applies to standard types of men's, women's and children's shoes which were being made during 1942.

The purpose of the price hike is to encourage production of low and moderately priced footwear. Such shoes, especially women's, practically have disappeared from the market, OPA said, because manufacturers have found it more profitable to turn out higher-priced merchandise.

The price boost comes only a month after suspension by the Civilian Production Administration of a wartime control which had directed manufacturers to continue to produce 1942 price lines of shoes. OPA agreed to removal of this control on the ground that shoe production had increased so much it no longer was needed.

The agency estimated the new order will raise prices for about one-fourth of shoes produced. Monthly production at present totals about 45,000,000 pairs.

Boost up to 65c
Under the new price schedule, men's and women's shoes which sold at retail in 1942 for about $4.30 will go about 45 to 65 cents. Children's shoes which were $2.50 will cost 25 to 35 cents more.

To qualify for the increase, manufacturers must produce the same style types they did in 1942, and the shoes must be equally sturdy and serviceable.

In reporting widespread diversion of footwear materials to higher price lines OPA said some manufacturers have been restyling their shoes, building up their costs and then applying for higher ceilings.

Shoe rationing contributed to this shift to higher price lines by manufacturers, OPA said. It added that during the war when customers' shoe purchases were limited, many "developed the tendency to buy higher priced shoes, regarding the price as an index to quality."

This, the agency said, encouraged manufacturers to turn out more expensive footwear.

JAP EMPEROR CALLS ON DOUG

Tokyo, May 31 (AP)—Emperor Hirohito, a quiet little man in a plain business suit, made his secret-ly-arranged second call on General MacArthur at the U. S. Embassy today. The two reportedly talked of food, of reconstruction, and of the vast changes in Japan since Hirohito had come to the throne in 1926.

Hidemasa Terasaki, of the imperial household ministry, acted as interpreter and was the only other person in the room. He told newsmen only that a variety of topics had been discussed. Other sources in the household ministry divulged the general subjects covered in the hour and a half meeting of emperor and conqueror.

The meeting came just three days ahead of the scheduled opening of international war-crimes trials in Tokyo.

MacArthur declined to comment to the press; so did his staff.

Hirohito was accompanied to the embassy by imperial household minister Yoshitami Matsudaira. There were no guards, and the two-car cavalcade left the palace so quietly that even Premier Shigeru Yoshida's office said it was unaware of such a call.

Many Exhibitors
The idea for an antique show in this section began in 1934 when Mrs. Renner went to New York city, saw an antique show and then decided to hold one in her home town of York. She told a reporter for The Gettysburg Times. Since then she has had 16 shows in York and has held shows throughout this section.

One of the displays attracting much attention is a lamp made with a large silver reflector in the rear and a boxlike arrangement with different colored glass on the various sides about the bulb. The heat from the light warms the air above it turning a fan which in turn keeps the boxlike arrangement about the light circling so that the different colors are thrown against the reflector in turn.

Among those taking part in the show are Mrs. Schlump, Edna Erb, Hershey; Helen Jourdet, Bainbridge, Pa.; Quenter's Corner, Germantown; John and Claire McMonigle, Elkins Park, Pa.; Dorothy Winemiller, Harrisburg; Mrs. Willis Bower, York; Mrs. Laura McDonald, Downingtown; Mae Freedman, Lancaster; Frank Stevenson, York R. SELECT SIX FIND IT TOUGH TO HIT OLD PACE AGAIN

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)
With the exception of Hurricane Hal Newhouse and Dave (Boo) Ferris, last year's select six of the big league hurling brigade—the 20-game winners—are finding it extremely difficult to regain their winning stride this year.

Four of the big six—the Chicago Cubs' Hank Wyse and Hank Borowy, St. Louis Cardinals' Charlie Barrett and Washington's Roger Wolf—strode to the hill in yesterday's Memorial Day double headers, but only Wyse walked off with a victory under his belt. Not one of the other three succeeded in going the route.

Wyse, a 22-game winner last year, has a so-so 3-3 record with only two creditable performances this season, including his four-hit 6-2 win over the Cincinnati Reds in the opening game of yesterday's twin bill.

Cards Divide
Borowy attempted to give the Braves a clean sweep of the two games, which would have moved the Cubs past the Reds into third place in the National league. For eight innings it appeared he would be successful as the Cubs led, 6-1, but the roof fell in on the former Fordham flinger in the ninth when the Reds banged across six runs to eke out a 7-6 triumph and an even split.

Despite the poor pitching of Barrett and Burkhardt, the Cardinals managed to divide their double header with the Pittsburgh Pirates before 34,984, winning the second encounter, 12-11, after the Bucs had walked off with the opener, 9-3.

The pace-setting Boston Red Sox continued to roll up one of the best early season records in American league history when they captured both ends of a twin bill from Washington's Senators, 6-5 and 7-2, for their 32nd triumph in 41 games.

Yanks Win Pair
With 60,851 (59,689 paid) looking on, at the mammoth Yankee stadium, the New York Yankees blasted out a double victory over the tail-end Philadelphia Athletics, 6-1 and 6-3, to remain six and a half games behind the Red Sox. The twin setback extended the A's losing streak to eight games.

Cleveland and the Chicago White Sox exchanged shutouts as Bobby Feller snapped a White Sox winning streak at four with a 3-0 whitewash job in the opener. Feller allowed eight hits and struck out six in his seventh victory, to raise his season total to 104 whiffs. Bill Dietrich and Ralph Hamner collaborated to pitch the Sox to a 4-0 nightcap win.

Tigers, Browns Split
The Brooklyn Dodgers held onto their two-game National league lead over the Cards when they halved their twin bill with the Boston Braves. After Kirby Higbe had blanked them 5-0 in the opener for Brooklyn, the Braves snapped out of their hitting slump to outslug the Dodgers, 10-8, in the finale.

Despite three home runs by Hank Greenberg, which enabled the Detroit first baseman to tie Joe DeMaggio for the major league lead at 11, the Tigers had to be satisfied with a split of their two games with the St. Louis Browns. After Dizzy Trout had beaten the Browns 7-1 in the opener, the Browns capped the second, 2-1.

The Philadelphia Phillies won their first doubleheader of the season when they upset the New York Giants twice, 8-5 and 3-1. A four run eighth inning rally won the opener, while Oscar Judd stopped the Ottmen with six hits in the nightcap.

ARENDSVILLE WINS PAIR TO STAY UNBEATEN

Arendtsville continued its unbeaten streak in the county baseball league by twice shutting out Orrtanna on Memorial Day.

The Apple Pickers took the morning game 8-0 at Orrtanna although scoring but one earned run. In the afternoon Orrtanna again failed to score as Arendtsville won on its home grounds 5-0.

The second place lads nosed out Emmitsburg 7-6 in the morning at Emmitsburg and then capped a 5-3 decision in the afternoon at Fairfield. George Kennel, Emmitsburg second baseman, connected for eight straight hits in the games while Scott rammed a homer for Fairfield with the bases full in the third inning of the afternoon game.

Bendersville and Littlestown divided a pair of games, Bendersville winning in the morning at Littlestown 8-2 while Littlestown took the afternoon tilt at Bendersville 10-3.

McSherrystown broke into the win column for the first time by sweeping a pair of games with Bonneauville, 16-4, and 9-1. The morning game was played at McSherrystown.

Wilkes-Barre And Scranton Split Pair

(By The Associated Press)
The pace-setting Scranton Miners and their neighboring rivals, the Wilkes-Barre Barons, took turns dishing out the holiday hospitality yesterday. The Miners played generous but reluctant host by yielding 2 to 1 in an afternoon game before 5,988 at Scranton.

The Barons, for their part, proved equally hospitable when play shifted to Wilkes-Barre for the night contest by absorbing a 9-4 licking before a crowd of 5,263.

In Albany, the Senators divided a closely-contested twin bill with the Hartford Chiefs, dropping the first, 3 to 2, but winning the second, 2 to 1. The Utica Blue Sox earned the admiration of 3,339 hometown fans by turning back Binghamton, 5-0 and 2-1.

Once again, flood conditions forced both Elmira and Williamsport into idleness.

ROBSON WINNER OF INDIANAPOLIS SPEED CLASSIC

By DALE BURGESS

Indianapolis, May 31 (AP)—George Robson, 30th winner of the 500-mile International Sweepstakes at Indianapolis motor speedway, figures the foul luck that had been dogging him and Joel Thorne's racing stable simply wore itself out before yesterday's race.

The Los Angeles driver, who had the pleasant task today of picking up a check for $33,800—$20,000 for first prize and $13,800 for leading in 138 laps—had tried twice before to capture the Memorial Day classic but motor trouble stopped him both times.

Robson's elapsed time for the distance was 4:21.16.70, giving him an average speed of 114.820 miles an hour—a figure bettered by only three other speedway winners. The record for the event—117.200 miles an hour—was set by the late Floyd Roberts in 1938.

Veteran of 15 Years
Robson, veteran of 15 years' racing, drove a heady race and had sparkling assistance from his pit crew in two short stops to have his goggles taped, two wheels changed and gasoline added.

The winning car, labeled the Thorne Engineering Special, is a rear-drive, six-cylinder job with a bore of 3.205 inches, stroke of 3.750 inches and 183 cubic inches of piston displacement.
Jimmy Jackson of Palm Springs, Calif., chased Robson for the last 300 miles and twice took the lead but couldn't hold it. Jackson's average of 114.498 miles an hour would have won most of the Memorial Day classics. Ted Horn of Paterson, N. J., one of the most consistent drivers in speedway history, hauled down third money.

One Seriously Hurt
Although only nine cars from the original starting field of 33 cars were left on the track when American Automobile Association officials declared the race ended, seven of them had averaged over 100 miles an hour. Only seven racers went the full 500 miles.

Horn's average was 109.820. Emil Andres of Chicago was fourth at 108.902; Sam Hanks of Chicago, relief driver for Joie Chitwood of Reading, Pa., fifth at 108.399.

Maur Rose, co-winner with Floyd Davis of Springfield, Ill., in the last pre-war race five years ago, smacked into the wall on the north turn after only 80 miles. He escaped with burns.

Paul Russo of Kenosha, Wis., driver of the race's dark-horse Paganol Twin Coach Company Special, was the only driver severely injured. He suffered a broken leg and a lacerated chin when his car piled up on the north turn after 27½ miles.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

INGRID BERGMAN

I recently attended a reception given in honor of the Swedish actress Ingrid Bergman. I had a brief talk with her. I have never met anyone so devoid of display—evident in so few who have risen to the heights. Neatly dressed, no apparent make-up, modest and friendly—simplicity itself—unconscious of any innate greatness.

Ingrid Bergman carries her art and greatness around with her. It trade-marks her. She has always aspired to be a great actress, though she has never been conscious of the fact that she has attained that height! This is what signifies the great artist. Someone has said that great art is to conceal art. That is what this beautiful actress seems to have done.

Seeing this actress upon the stage, or screen, and then meeting her, is a wonderful experience. You are amazed to discover the same simplicity, the same superb naturalness, and sincerity, upon meeting her, that you experienced when you saw her act. Every ounce of her success is well deserved. It has been a steady climb with her. Always that unconscious desire to surpass herself—to get nearer all the time to perfection. All that she now presents in herself is a tribute to long years of hard work, and to character.

It is refreshing to meet such a wholesome and sincere artist. Her example is an inspiration to all art. I saw her last in her recent "The Bells of St. Mary's"—and she did not disappoint me; in fact she would be great in any play, or in any picture. She would stand out unique! But this is because she would not attempt a part that would not display herself. All the artistry of any producer, in a poor play or picture, could not cloud the outstanding performance of Ingrid Bergman.

It would be well if other aspirants to such a station as Ingrid Bergman has attained would note the steps by which she climbed. Not by imitation, but by education—taking note of her sincerity, simplicity, and deep-rooted desire to outstandingly express, in natural art, the portrayal of character. The stage and screen would gain thereby.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "The Significance of Bells"

Just Folks

MEMORIES OF FIFTY YEARS AGO

Let us now the memories muster Of those long-past early years: Of the goggles and the duster Worn by motor pioneers, And the giggles and the chuckles Of the scoffers, near and far, As the driver skinned his knuckles When he vainly cranked the car.

We were on our own resources When the motor wouldn't start— Idiots shouted: "Stick to horses!" And they fancied they were smart. Then, all drivers to be heeded, Got a printed book of rules, And in case repairs were needed A mechanic's set of tools.

For the lamps, we carried matches, Were we out till after dark. For the tires, we'd "shoes" and "patches." Here I linger to remark For this modern generation, Should it happen to inquire, That the worst of all inflation Is by hand to pump a tire.

Hey, young fellow, stop a minute, While the traffic's being cleared! That fine car, and all that's in it, Has been bravely pioneered. Motor griefs some stout heart battered, Crawled in mud on hands and knees, To learn why his old car rattled, So that you could drive with ease.

ACCIDENTS KILL 13 OVER 30TH

(By The Associated Press)

The Memorial holiday week-end death toll from drowning, fire and traffic accidents stood at 13 today in the Keystone state.

Three persons were drowned yesterday, two were burned to death and eight others died in automobile accidents. Scores of others were reported injured in traffic accidents.

The fire victims, both killed in the same blaze, were Murray Huttman, eight, and Barry Huttman, three. Their father, Samuel Huttman, was injured critically in an attempt to save them. The father said he raced up to their second-floor apartment in Philadelphia when he smelled smoke but stumbled and fell out of a window.

In Wrightsville, the bodies of Palmer and Kenneth Sechrest were sought in the flood-bloated Susquehanna river. The pair, cousins from Dallastown, were lost when their canoe overturned during a holiday outing. Eugene Ray, 15, Philadelphia, drowned in Wissahickon creek after he dove into shallow water.

The auto accident victims included:

Mrs. Mary Holman, 69, Homestead, struck and killed by a street car in Pittsburgh; Edmund Reynolds, 54, R. D. 2, New Kensington, killed in the collision of his truck and a car near Kensington; Mrs. Anna Hammer, 24, Baltimore, Md., killed near Somerset when the automobile in which she was a passenger overturned on the Pennsylvania turnpike; Richard Kahle, 23, and Donald Cadley, 23, both of Marienville (killed near Tidioute), both passengers of an automobile which left the road and catapulted over a nearby embankment; Merle McFerrer, 20, Fairview, Pa., died from injuries suffered when thrown from an automobile which smashed into a bridge near Waynesboro; Ernest E. Malone, 23, Princeton, Pa., killed near New Castle when his automobile struck a culvert and threw him into a swamp, and James A. Brown, 60, Philadelphia, struck by an automobile in Philadelphia.

The Circuses

Midway between juvenile and adult "sports" we had, at least once a year, the circus, which had its appeal for young and old. The first coming in the summer (I think we often had more than one in a season) was an event to which all looked forward, that is, those of the elders to whom it was not "taboo," as it was to many. With the circus itself, I had very little acquaintance, for I was never inside a circus tent until I was old enough to take my boys—for my mother was one who clasped it with cards, dancing and liquor—it simply was not done. But all that could not hide from us its coming and the street parades.

The earlier circuses were comparatively small—and horse drawn in all elements, for all purposes. After the evening performance, it would "fold its tents" like magic, travel all night, set up at the next "stand" in the morning, ready for the street parade and afternoon performance. What a luxurious life that must have been for them!

In later years, they were larger and traveled by rail, with their own long strings of flat cars and sleepers for the performers. The unloading and transfer to the location was a delight to us boys, of which we never tired.

Street Parades

The location was most frequently the fair-grounds, or the "Commons," previously described.

The "set up" was the "big top" for the performance, and another of about the same size for the menagerie—with a varying number of "side-shows."

And what a spectacle those street parades were—flashy equestriennes, the gorgeous master of ceremonies, the long train of animal cages, of which one or two would be without shutters (to whet our appetites) the blaring callopie, a steam actuated "organ" and the band wagon, a gorgeous gilt affair on which a few musicians made enough noise for twice their number—as characterized by the "little German band" of days gone by.

It was a poor show that did not have at least one elephant or did not have the usual troupe of fantastically-dressed clowns, in the parade.

The mammoth "posters" (canvases) that set forth the delights of the sideshows, of all kinds of freaks, artificial and otherwise.

And, weeks ahead, every available space, in and around the town would be covered with great paper posters, announcing the coming event. This rather sketchy account will not tell much to one who never saw it in life, but to those who did see it, I think some of the palpitating heart throbs of days long gone, will be recalled.

Washington, May 31 (P)—That new car and new refrigerator are three months farther away from the average American family today, the government estimates, because of the soft coal tieup and other strikes.

go progress, Small's monthly production survey revealed, industry in April set new marks for consumer goods production—record highs for men's suits, vacuum cleaners and electric irons, and postwar records for a dozen other scarce items.

But this, he pointed out, occurred before effects of the coal strike were felt. That stoppage, he said, cost the country $2,000,000,000 worth of production and the economy will "bear the scars x x x for many months to come."

The pressure toward higher prices also was intensified by the coal shutdown, according to OPA Administrator Paul A. Porter, in another statement issued last night.

Backfire by Rufus Heed

Chapter 20

That evening alone in her apartment Whitney sat disconsolately looking at the remnants of a cold supper she had scrambled together from left-overs in her miniature icebox. She had a lot to think about. That afternoon Paul had said definitely that Gregory had deliberately accused him of cheating at cards.

If Gregory knew how to play baccarat, Paul was right. But he had told her so many times that he never played cards! This was something she must find out at once. It put an entirely different aspect on this quarrel between the two men. If Gregory knew the game and deliberately chose an exciting moment of play to make an entirely false charge against Paul, she knew nothing was going to work out the way she had hoped it would.

Going into her bedroom, Whitney piled up the pillows on her bed, replenished her stock of cigarettes and settled down to try and make some sense out of a situation which she knew now was rapidly getting out of her control.

The whole affair was far more serious than she had ever dreamed it would be. Something must be done at once. She would have to do it or see their names dragged through a public scandal in a court of law.

"It's all my fault," she thought bitterly. "I should never have invited those two men to the same hunt breakfast."

If only she could talk to Polly! But Polly was just coming in for Mrs. Field's reception the next day and with all she, Whitney, had to do tomorrow she knew there would be no chance to see her sister alone. Whitney had wanted "time" to work things out for herself—well, she was getting it with a vengeance!

One more call she made before she went to bed. This was to Irene Parker, society editor of the Washington "Standard." Her enthusiasm over Whitney's telephoning her was instantaneous.

"You are just the person I most want to see," the society editor exclaimed. "Of course, I'll meet you early tomorrow in the Field apartment. But you're a much better story than the fussy little Field mouse is. She's a lucky lady to have you for her secretary, my dear. I've been on your trail for days, for the story of how you ever came to take over for her."

"But I don't want to talk about myself. I want you to help me with her reception."

"That's easy. I'll tell the rest of the girls to get there about two and I'll be Johnny-on-the-spot at one-thirty. How about lunching with me to save time?"

But that Whitney refused, knowing too well the last minute details that would make tomorrow a whirlwind of excitement until the last guest had departed. Irene Parker knew everyone in town. She went everywhere—she'd give her the information she wanted.

The henna-dyed, bustling newspaper woman who appeared in the Field apartment shortly after one the next day eyed Whitney with approval as she ushered her into the living room.

"You certainly know your way around this town, Miss Hamilton," she commented as she looked over the room giving it a swift, trained appraisal. "What the Fields have always needed is a better press and you are already getting it for them. Giving the girls a break today, this way, is something Mrs. Field has never done before. Oh, Mrs. Field," she held out her hand in greeting as the Senator's wife, haggard and completely flustered almost ran into the room.

Mrs. Field turned helplessly to Whitney a moment later. "The worst has happened," she lamented in a stricken voice. "My dress isn't finished. It can't possibly be here this afternoon. I'll have to wear my old grey one—"

"Why, that's a charming dress," Irene Parker broke in cheerfully. "I'll describe it for you to the girls—nothing wrong with it at all. I remember its touches of white—"

"And her violets," Whitney supplemented quickly.

The editor nodded vigorously. "Don't give the dress another thought. You may not recognize it in the morning paper but I assure you, you'll like it!"

A few minutes later Mrs. Field finished her interview, handed over her guest list and left the room pathetically grateful for the help and the suggestions the editor had given her. It was while Whitney was walking with her to the entrance hall that she asked the question which had been bothering her for the last 24 hours.

"Miss Parker, do you know much about the diplomatic corps this season?"

"Oh, a little," the editor replied modestly. "All in line with my work. I try to keep track of changes that are always being made. Why?"

"Not long ago I met the Count Barberini—" Whitney hesitated as she saw the shrewd eyes of the newspaper woman watching her with sudden interest. "He gets around a lot." She was beginning to flounder, then quickly she recovered herself and hurried on. "A friend of mine is giving a large dinner and bridge—she needs another bachelor—she wondered if the Count played—"

It was all too clumsy. Whitney was suddenly sorry she had started any of this.

"I'll say he does! He's much better at cards than he is some other things where I'd say his technique is decidedly mouldy."

"You seem to know him pretty well," Whitney laughed shortly.

"I manage to get around a bit. And I must say some of these foreigners are pretty obvious. Your crowd never bothers much with them, so you wouldn't know, being under the age limit."

That thrust made Whitney wince a little, but she'd asked for it. "I suppose all men have the customary number of alibis when it comes to their social existence—especially in this town

CONTAMINATED MEAT OBJECT OF STATE CHECKUP
By LEONARD A. UNGER
Harrisburg, May 31 (AP)—Cracking down in an intensified drive against contaminated meat, the State Bureau of animal industry said today it has examined nearly 3,000 slaughter houses and abattoirs since Jan. 1, uncovering 86 violations.

State agents concentrated principally on sanitation requirements in closing 17 plants and ordering changes and improvements within the limited time allowed by the state at other plants. The latter were permitted to retain their licenses unless they failed to clean up their premises.

The agents have been "exercising extra precautions" in their inspections, the bureau added, in examining 46,000 dressed carcasses and condemning 51 as unfit for human consumption.

Meat Unfit For Use
Out of more than 273,000 animals slaughtered under state inspection 973 were condemned. Nearly 12,000,000 pounds of meat and meat products were passed and almost 14,000 pounds were rated unfit for human consumption.

Most condemned meats and carcasses are used in the manufacture of fertilizers, the bureau explained. Revised estimates of 1945 cash receipts from farming in Pennsylvania show a total of $544,740,000 less government payments, the state agriculture department said following federal state surveys that provided revised figures for the past three years.

Gains In Livestock
The department said government payments last year amounted to $31,124,000, mostly in subsidies to farmers for milk production so that consumer costs could be kept at 1942 "hold-the-line" levels and to provide low-cost fertilizer and lime.

Total receipts, including government payments, reached $573,864,000, highest ever known in the Keystone state.

Breakdown for 1945 cash receipts showed $404,203,000 from livestock and livestock products and $140,447,000 from crops, the report indicated. Greatest gains were in livestock and livestock products, including milk and eggs. Milk production totaling 5,250,000,000 pounds in 1945 was the greatest in history, Horst added, and poultry sales reached new heights.

The juice of two lemons in hot or cold water the first thing after arising, is a good vitamin boost.

For a delicious flavor, sprinkle fish with lemon juice before frying it.

time the official party reached the rostrum.

Some people had a fine view of the Musselman annex to the Warner hospital on their way to the cemetery—they had to park all the way back there on South Washington street and walk the rest of the way.

Speaking of parking the use of the battlefield just inside the gates on the avenue leading to the Pennsylvania monument took care of well over a hundred cars.

When M/Sgt. W. L. Baldwin blew taps at the cemetery it marked the 17th year that he has performed that ceremony. His "echo" was Pfc. Dale K. Smith, of Gettysburg, a South Pacific theater veteran of World War II. Baldwin has also blown at the burials of 574 veterans, including all but three of the Spanish-American war vets in the National cemetery here. He had grandfathers fighting on both sides during the Civil War.

Borough and state police deserve much credit for their efficient traffic direction.

Someone introducing gubernatorial candidate John S. Rice to some of the Republican congressmen at the rostrum said only "he's running for governor" without mentioning the Democratic affiliation.

Wilbur A. Gelselman, commander, and C. Arthur Brame, a past commander of the local Legion post presented a box of cigars, thirty-six packages of chewing tobacco, a

Senate Frowns On Labor Legislation, Stripped Of Power By House Action

PUSH CAMPAIGN TO WRECK PLAN TO CHECK LABOR

By WILLIAM T. PEACOCK

Washington, May 31 (AP)—President Truman's emergency labor program, already shorn of its potent draft-labor provision, came under fresh Senate attack today with its chances of survival greatly diminished.

Heartened by the end of the soft coal strike and the resultant improvement in the economic outlook, a coalition of Senate Republicans and New Deal Democrats pressed their campaign to wreck the proposed legislation.

One uncertain factor in the picture as the chamber convened at 11 a. m. EST was whether the crippling maritime strike set for June 15 will be averted. Removal of this threat would heavily strengthen the hand of those arguing against any speedy action on such drastic legislation.

"Gun-Behind-the-Door"

Foes of Mr. Truman's emergency program had several new amendments ready. Senator Murray (D-Mont.), said the New Deal group also planned a move to end discussion of the bill on the floor and send it back to committee—a side-tracking process normally.

Republicans indicated they will not oppose such a maneuver, and the expressed attitude of Democratic Leader Barkley (Ky.), is that if the maritime labor dispute is settled it might be a good move to send the bill to Interstate Commerce committee for further study.

In committee, it could remain as a sort of "gun-behind-the-door" which Congress could snatch up if a new labor crisis developed.

The Republican-New Deal group, which led the way in knocking out Mr. Truman's labor-draft proposal Wednesday, appeared so completely in the saddle that most of their opponents had given up hope of enacting even a reasonable facsimile of the measure asked by the President.

Clamor for Veto

Senator Ellender (D-La.), one of 13 senators who went down the line for Mr. Truman on the strikers-draft, told newsmen it appeared that if any bill is passed "it will be worth absolutely nothing."

In the circumstances, Capitol interest in labor legislation was focused primarily on the question of what the President will do with the Case strike control bill.

This measure, which its supporters call long-range legislation designed to promote industrial peace, would place check reins on some practices of both management and labor which have figured in past labor disputes.

Labor unions, bitterly assailing it, are clamoring for Mr. Truman to veto it.

The President has given no indication of what he intends to do, but it is known that he is receiving con-

Bus Drivers' Strike Far From Settlement

Pittsburgh, May 31 (AP)—A strike of 215 Blue Ridge Bus lines drivers and terminal and maintenance workers was in its 26th day today with little prospect of a settlement in sight.

A company spokesman said last night that no progress had been made in an all-day conference between company and union officials.

The strike has tied up two western lines of the company extending from Pittsburgh to New Kensington, Washington, and Waynesburg, Pa., Morgantown and Clarksburg, W. Va., and Cleveland via Steubenville, O.

The AFL-street, electric railway and motor coach employees union is seeking a 30-cent hourly wage boost.

GROMYKO SAYS SOME SEEK TO DOMINATE U.N.

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Secretary of State Byrnes on Tuesday flatly denied the charge made by Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov that during the recent Paris conference of foreign ministers an Anglo-American bloc had conducted an offensive against the Soviet Union — and last night Russia tossed the ball back to America.

Andrei Gromyko, Soviet representative on the United Nations Security Council, declared at a rally in New York last night that there is a tendency on the part of "certain countries" to play a dominating part in the United Nations to the detriment of the cause of peace and security. Mr. Gromyko didn't specify the "certain countries" to which he referred, but you don't have to be an expert mind reader to know that he referred to Uncle Sam and John Bull.

U.S. Shoots Straight

So the argument is back where it started from — or is it? If peace is in the hearts of all the big three, then perhaps progress has been made, for both Secretary Byrnes and Foreign Minister Molotov have made their respective cases very clear in plain talk.

Washington is pursuing the straight-from-the-shoulder approach which Moscow favors so much. This is calculated to have a salutary effect, which is more than can be said of the employment of any language which might be interpreted as appeasement. Appeasement had much to do with producing the late war.

Although Moscow and the western Allies have been finding it so difficult to see eye to eye, Secretary

Byrnes yesterday made an announcement which ought to be royally welcomed by Russia unless she has changed her views in the past few years. This is his declaration that the United States will seek the limitation of the world's armaments in the interests of peace.

DEGREE FOR CHINESE

Waynesburg, Pa., May 31 (AP)—Mei Tao Ming, Chinese ambassador to the U. S. will receive an honorary degree and address the 34 graduates at commencement exercises Sunday at Waynesburg college. Other honorary degrees will go to M. L. Benedum, Richard K. Mellon and Rev. Dr. Hugh Thomson Kerr, all of Pittsburgh. Dr. Kerr will give the baccalaureate sermon tomorrow night.

Byrnes yesterday made an announcement which ought to be royally welcomed by Russia unless she has changed her views in the past few years. This is his declaration that the United States will seek the limitation of the world's armaments in the interests of peace.

Sought Disarmament

Over a long period of years Moscow energetically battled for world disarmament. Maxim Litvinoff played an important part in this campaign. In November of 1927 he created a sensation at the Geneva Preparatory Disarmament conference by proposing on behalf of his government total disarmament within four years. He presented a resolution calling for the disbandment of all armies, the scrapping of all navies, the demolishing of all fortifications, the destruction of all means of chemical warfare and the dismantling of all munitions factories.

"Armed peace," he maintained, "is only an armistice — it is a negation of the basic principle of the Kellogg anti-war pact."

Of course a lot of water has spilled over the dam since those days, and one wonders what the other members of the big three will make of Mr. Byrnes' announcement. That would seem to provide common ground on which they could get some sort of toe hold.

DIG OUT FROM DEBRIS OF FLOOD

Harrisburg, Pa., May 31 (AP)—Residents of towns, cities, and farms in southern New York and north-central Pennsylvania today dug themselves out of the debris left by the Susquehanna river's worst flood waters in a decade.

The crest had passed as far south as Port Deposit, Md., yesterday and the river, which left a wake of 13 known dead and untold property damage, was returning to normalcy. Apparently subsiding as rapidly as it had risen after four days of torrential rains.

American Red Cross officials here said that complete reports of casualties were yet to be made. Five of the dead were known to be from Tioga county, Pa. The Red Cross said more than 7,000 families had registered for relief.

Red Cross spokesmen said that of the communities stricken, the greatest damage was done to Williamsport and Tunkhannock, both in Pennsylvania. Estimates of property damage to all of the flooded districts exceeded $3,000,000.

U. S. Weather bureau forecasts, meanwhile, predicted levels as much as 20 feet below flood crests.

SAVE SAW BUCK

Stratford, S. D., May 31 (AP)—A breeze whisked away a $10 bill which O. H. Gerhart, cattle buyer, handed to his son Allen, in a feedlot and a six months old calf picked it up and started chewing.

"That ain't hay!" Gerhart shouted as he took hold of the animal and instructed his son to reach down the calf's throat. Allen retrieved the bill, about shoulder-deep in the calf's interior.

CAREFUL PLANS HELP NORWAY IN RECOVERY

By HAL BOYLE

Oslo, May 31 (AP)—Rugged Norway, war orphan of Scandinavia, is pulling herself out of the backwash of battle on a diet of bread, potatoes and fish.

Because of careful planning of her postwar economy, even while the intruding nazis were still lords of her fjords and rocky acres, she is moving toward full recovery about as fast as any country in Europe that suffered under the German blight.

But she is doing it by "doing without." Her people have plenty of basic life sustaining foods—they even were able to help other countries as a result of a record fish catch—but they lack meat, coffee and the little table luxuries that make for gracious living.

Severe Housing Problem

They are extremely short of shoes and many children had to remain away from school last winter because of lack of footwear.

And, of course, like almost every other civilized land around the globe, they are faced with a severe housing problem, one made somewhat easier by the fact they at least have plenty of lumber.

Norwegians are a tough and proud people and despite their hardships they make few complaints, although they are presently an island in the midst of Scandinavian plenty. To their south lies Denmark flowing in milk and cream and flavored with bacon. To their east lies Sweden, richest of Scandinavian countries. No animosity exists between the Norwegians and the care-free Danes, but there is a strained feeling between the common folk of Norway and Sweden, one of the hangovers of war.

Fears Inferiority Complex

"You know we don't care much for the Swedes," one Norwegian said. "They gave us food during the war, all right, and we remember that German ammunition trains painted with international Red Cross symbol came into Norway through Sweden."

Norway in many respects bears the same relation to her wealthy and more populous neighbor as the United States did to Great Britain early in the last century. One intelligent Norwegian contractor told me he thought his countrymen suffered from an inferiority complex.

"We don't get as much fun out of life as the Danes," he said; "and we feel inferior to the Swedes. I suppose because they are older, more cultured and polite. I also am afraid they have better business men."

An obstreperous terrain compels

Norwegians to cluster in valley patches and let the forests take the steeped hills and mountains of their country. Their scarcity of good land sends them out to plow the sea for food.

Rigorous Life There

This rigorous life has to some extent held down their cultural advancement and caused them to emigrate by thousands to easier lands. It may also help explain why Norway's capital, Oslo, is ugly compared to Copenhagen and Stockholm, where more money and leisure have produced finer buildings, better civic art.

Yet her stern past is bearing one fair fruit now—fortitude. Her hard working people are putting Norway back into peacetime shape by their own efforts and without whining. Shipping is reviving and that is bringing in sorely needed credits for purchases abroad.

The only wall about hard times you hear in Norway is from her women as they cast rueful glances eastward toward their more fortunate sisters in Sweden and lament: "If we could get one pair of silk stockings—just one—life wouldn't be so bad."

PUBLIC SCHOOLS CLOSED TUESDAY IN LITTLESTOWN

The public schools of the borough closed for the term on Tuesday, and report cards were given out to the pupils.

Previous to the close of school, the pupils of the seventh grade completed studying a unit on the Industrial Revolution. Prior to this they completed units on Colonial times and the Revolutionary War. They made maps showing countries, populations, and rainfall in geography, and charts in science. They also completed book reports for the year. Betty Lou Crouse, a former resident of Philadelphia, completed the year with the local seventh grade.

Sixth grade pupils completed a unit concerning the Pennsylvania Dutch. This study was centered about their lives before and after they came to America. They also made notebooks about the unit. In Art they made waste baskets decorating them with Pennsylvania Dutch designs.

Other Projects

The third graders were awarded certificates for brushing their teeth and massaging their gums at least twice a day. They also had made pink carnations to honor their mothers on Mother's Day. A new pupil in the closing weeks of the term in this grade was Barbara Ann Shoemaker.

Pupils of the second grade finished studying the growth of a bean from seed to the stalk; and also a potato from the stem to the leaf. Grass seed was sown and the procedure of growth was carefully observed by the pupils.

Pupils of the first and second grades assembled in the first grade room to listen to the radio program concerning the conservation of food. All were urged to listen carefully to this program. The first graders had charge of the Rhythm Band in the grade school operetta.

In addition to the 32 members of the Senior class, diplomas were also given at the commencement exercises to two G.I.'s, Ross Applier and David Rodgers.

The seniors voted Milbur Mayers as the "Van Johnson" of the class, and Ruth Myers as their "June Allyson."

Mrs. Maurice C. Wareheim has returned from the Hanover General hospital where she had been undergoing observation for several days. She is improved.

Mrs. George L. Maitland, New Hampshire, Mass., a former resident of this place, is visiting her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Maitland.

CLAYTON EVANS IS SUPERVISOR AT PLAYGROUND

Clayton L. Evans, health instructor at the Littlestown high school, will be supervisor at the public playground during the months of June, July and August. The playground committee of Littlestown has announced. The play director will be on duty from 1 o'clock until dark, five days a week.

Supervised play activities for the children during the summer months has been a long-felt need in Littlestown and the committee worked several months to provide this wholesome recreation for the children. The question of funds has not been entirely solved, but the committee does not plan to ask for public donations to help in the upkeep and purchase of equipment unless it becomes necessary.

Mr. Evans has outlined his plans for the summer. The children will be divided into age groups and activities suitable for each group will be planned. One group will be composed of children four, five and six years of age; a second group of those seven, eight, nine, and ten; and a third group will consist of those children who are eleven to fourteen years of age. Those over fourteen are expected to join in adult group activities, such as baseball, softball, volleyball, outdoor basketball, and tennis. A softball league is being planned and an outdoor basketball court will be opened near the high school building.

The playground committee is composed of Henry T. Waltman and Lloyd E. Crouse, representing the board of education; Luther D. Snyder, Stanley B. Stover, and Clarence L. Schwartz, of the Chamber of Commerce. Committees to assist Mr. Evans in carrying out the play program are: Equipment and grounds, Mr. Crouse and Mr. Waltman; games and trophies, Mr. Stover and Mr. Snyder; finance and publicity, Mr. Snyder and Mr. Schwartz.

LITTLESTOWN TO GIVE PARKING METERS TRIAL

The Littlestown borough council voted unanimously, at its meeting Tuesday night, in favor of the installation of parking meters in the congested area of the borough on a nine-month trial basis, and also by a unanimous vote directed that a contract be entered into with the McGee-Hale Park-O-Meter company, Oklahoma City, for the installation of an automatic type of parking meter providing metered parking from 12 minutes to two hours.

The parking meter question, which has been under consideration for several weeks, was brought before the council again by the safety committee and Council President Claude A. Snyder asked members of the council whether it was their desire to vote on either rejecting the meter proposition, or accepting them on the trial basis. After voting in favor of the nine-month trial, Councilman Albert H. Kindig moved that the borough purchase the "Park-O-Meter" and this motion was seconded by Councilman Edward H. Lelater and unanimously adopted.

Set up Meter Limits
Provisions of the meter ordinance adopted by the council include the following:

The "congested" area was set up from the east side of James avenue to the west side of Maple avenue, and from the north side of Monarch street to the south side of Myrtle street, meters to be installed on King street and Queen street.

Parking for 12 minutes will be allowed on deposit of one cent in the meters, and 60-minutes parking for five cents or two-hour parking for two five-cent coins, no parking to be for more than two hours. A penalty of $1 fine was set up in the ordinance for parking "over-time" the fine to be paid to the burgess within 48 hours of the violation.

Parking hours for which charge will be made will be from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. Monday through Friday, and from 8 a. m. to 10 p. m. on Saturday. There will be no charge for parking on Sundays and holidays.

Boaters Get Space
Parking meter collections will be made, and violation "tags" placed on automobiles, by the Littlestown borough police. Failure to pay the $1 fine within 48 hours will constitute a violation of the parking meter ordinance.

Upon motion of Councilman Harry L. Trosle, seconded by Councilman Kindig, two Littlestown physicians, Dr. Arthur C. Richards, Jr., and Dr. Leonard L. Potter were granted "no parking" zones in front of their respective offices for loading and unloading only. The borough secretary was authorized to purchase signs for these zones.

PAUL BOWMAN RE-OPENS HIS 'GREEN GROCERY'

Closed for two days to complete alterations which have been under way for some time, and to rearrange the merchandise, Littlestown's "green grocery" on the northeast corner of "the square" re-opened today completely redecorated, enlarged and with new equipment, as a "self-serve" store.

Its owner is Paul Bowman, who has been in the grocery business at the same location, but in a much smaller store, for the past six years. Mr. Bowman formerly worked for Bankert and Beamer, in their "B and B" store. A little more than a year ago he bought the building in which the store is located.

Alterations have been under way for weeks. Space has been more than doubled. New lighting fixtures have been installed. Walls have been redecorated in pastel shades of cream and green. Darker green trims the counters and shelves.

New equipment has been added. Fresh meats will be offered for sale as soon as Mr. Bowman can obtain the equipment. This has been ordered for some time, but he may not be able to get delivery before fall, he said. Wide, slanting shelves and bins have been constructed for the display and sale of fresh vegetables and fruits, and Mr. Bowman also offers complete lines of frozen foods, as well as all the staples, and nationally-advertised brands of packaged food.

Apartments located on the upper floors of the building have also been re-decorated.

VFW PLANS OPENING

Mason and Dixon Memorial Post No. 6954, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Littlestown, is planning to hold a formal opening of its new meeting place sometime in June. The former Hollinger recreation hall on Lombard street will be ready for occupancy by the vets in the near future. Further plans will be made at the next meeting of the post on Tuesday, June 11.

ordinance, and make the violator subject to a fine up to $50, or 30 days in jail. The same penalties are provided for other infractions of the ordinance, including the defacing, injuring or tampering with the meters, use of slugs, etc.

Upon motion of Councilman Harry L. Trosle, seconded by Councilman Kindig, two Littlestown physicians, Dr. Arthur C. Richards, Jr., and Dr. Leonard L. Potter were granted "no parking" zones in front of their respective offices for loading and unloading only. The borough secretary was authorized to purchase signs for these zones.

ORDINANCE NO. 104

AN ORDINANCE
Relating to traffic in certain congested areas in the Borough of Littlestown, defining and regulating the parking of vehicles in certain areas in the Borough of Littlestown; providing for the designation of individual parking spaces, for the use of such spaces, and for the use of mechanical parking time indicators in conjunction therewith.

WHEREAS, an emergency exists in the Borough of Littlestown, in that certain congested areas in the Borough of Littlestown, the free movement of traffic in the down town business district is impeded, and

WHEREAS, previous attempts to regulate the parking in the aforesaid areas have not been successful as is desirable because of the small number of traffic policemen available therefore, and

WHEREAS, because of the habit of numerous operators of motor vehicles, which they take advantage of the above situation by parking for unreasonable lengths of time in the congested areas, and other motor vehicles so parked on the most congested parts of the Borough's busiest streets tend to further impede traffic and in addition thereto, to other motorists and pedestrians, and

WHEREAS, it is the opinion of this council that the best way by which the above mentioned conditions may be remedied is by the designation of individual parking spaces, and by the use of mechanical parking time indicators in conjunction therewith, by restricting the use of such spaces to reasonable intervals of time and by compelling the operators of vehicles who enjoy the use of parking space so designated, to pay a portion of the cost of establishing and maintaining the same. Now Therefore:

Be It Ordained and Enacted by the Borough of Littlestown, Adams County, Pennsylvania, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the following words shall be defined as follows:

"VEHICLE": Any device in, upon or by which any person or property is or may be transported upon a public highway except such as are used exclusively upon stationary rails or tracks and such devices as are propelled exclusively by human power.

"PARKING": The standing of a vehicle upon a street whether such vehicle be occupied or not and whether such vehicle be accompanied or not by an operator for a period of time in excess of two minutes.

"MECHANICAL PARKING TIME INDICATORS OR PARKING METERS": A device or devices which shall indicate thereon the length of time during which a vehicle may be parked in a particular place, which shall have as a part thereof a receptacle or chamber for receiving and storing coins of the United States money, a slot or place in which said coin may be deposited; a timing mechanism to indicate the passage of the interval of time during which parking is permissible and which shall also display an appropriate signal when the aforesaid interval of time shall have elapsed; also brief instructions as to their operation.

"INDIVIDUAL PARKING SPACE": A portion of the paved surface of the street of sufficient length and depth from the sidewalk curb to accommodate a vehicle to be parked as shall be specified and marked off by direction of the Safety Committee of the Borough Council of the Borough of Littlestown.

SECTION 2. Congested Area. For the purpose of this Ordinance the "CONGESTED TRAFFIC AREA" is hereby declared to be from the East side of James Avenue to the West side of Maple Avenue, and from the North side of Monarch Street to the South side of Myrtle Street, and Council hereby determines that because of the flow of traffic on the streets or portions of the streets within such area that parking therein shall be subject to the provisions of this Ordinance.

SECTION 3. DESIGNATION OF INDIVIDUAL PARKING SPACES. The Safety Committee is hereby authorized and directed to designate and mark off such individual parking spaces as they deem proper along the principal streets in the Congested Traffic Area to-wit: King Street and Queen Street for the parking of Vehicles. At each place where individual parking as so marked off, each vehicle shall be parked entirely within an individual parking space.

SECTION 4. PARKING METERS TO BE INSTALLED. The Safety Committee is hereby authorized and directed to place, install and remove parking meters upon the curb side, or in the immediate vicinity of individual parking places designated and marked off in the congested traffic area where parking is restricted. All such parking meters shall comply with the conditions set forth in the third (3rd) paragraph of Section 1 of this Ordinance, and said meters shall be under the management, supervision and control of the Burgess of the Borough of Littlestown.

SECTION 5. REGULATIONS FOR PARKING IN INDIVIDUAL PARKING SPACES. Whenever a vehicle shall be parked in an individual parking space, where a parking meter has been installed, the person parking such vehicle shall deposit one cent coin, or a five cent coin of United States money in said parking meter. If such meter displays a signal showing that legal parking is only permitted on such deposit, it shall be the duty of the person parking such vehicle to comply with the signal shown in accordance with the instructions thereon.

Parking shall be permissible in an individual parking space for which a meter is installed for twelve minutes for each one cent coin and sixty minutes for each five cent coin upon the deposit of one or more of such coins in the parking meter as herein before provided but in no event shall continuous parking be permitted for more than two hours. Notice to the public shall be given by appropriate sign setting forth the length of time for which parking is permitted and the conditions thereof. Such notice may be upon the parking meter stand or in the immediate vicinity. Any vehicle which remains in an individual parking space, after the prescribed time for parking is hereby determined to be illegally parked, but in no event shall it be considered illegal parking if the meter display signal shows that a proper deposit has been made for such parking. The provisions of this Ordinance shall not apply to vehicles parked or standing upon the streets of the Borough of Littlestown in the congested areas heretofore designated when such vehicles are parked or standing on such streets between the hours of 10 P. M. in Saturday evening and 8 A. M. the following morning of each week day except Saturday; and between the hours of 10 P. M. in Saturday evening until eight A. M. the following Monday. The provisions of this Ordinance shall not apply to Sunday and legal holidays.

Any vehicle parked in contravention of this provision shall be deemed to be an illegal parking under the provision of this Ordinance. The fact that a vehicle is in an individual parking space when its time signal on the meter for the same shows no parking permitted shall be deemed to be an admission of the unlawful parking of such motor vehicle by its operator and, or its owner.

SECTION 7. SECTION 9. It shall be unlawful and a violation of the provisions of this ordinance for any person to deface, injure, tamper with, open or wilfully break, destroy or impair the usefulness of any parking meter installed under the provisions of this Ordinance.

SECTION 10. It shall be unlawful and a violation of the provisions of this ordinance for any person to deposit in any parking meter any slug or device or metallic substance or any other substance for the purpose of obtaining free parking for one or more vehicles of the United States.

SECTION 11. It shall be the duty of the police officers of the Borough of Littlestown acting in accordance with the instructions issued by the Burgess of the Borough of Littlestown to report to the Burgess of Littlestown in regard to such violation of this ordinance as may be observed by them. SECTION 12. Any person who shall violate any of the provisions of this ordinance and any person who aids, abets or assists therein shall, upon conviction thereof, in a summary proceeding before the Burgess or a Justice of the Peace, be sentenced to pay a fine of not to exceed fifty ($50.00) Dollars and costs, and in default of payment thereof to imprisonment for not to exceed thirty (30) days.

SECTION 14. This Ordinance shall be a supplement to the general traffic ordinance and all other ordinances of the Borough of Littlestown regulating traffic, parking and the use of the streets, which shall be in force and effect in the congested district except insofar as modified by the provisions hereinafter set forth. Any authority heretofore or hereafter exercised by the Burgess of Littlestown under any ordinance rule or regulation restricting or prohibiting parking independent of time limits, shall in no manner be affected by this ordinance, and any such provisions thereof, the purpose of this Ordinance is to assist in the regulation of overtime parking by the use of parking meters and it shall be so construed.

SECTION 15. All sections of this ordinance shall be deemed to be separate and independent and the invalidity of any section or provision hereof shall not affect the remaining sections.

SECTION 16. All ordinances or parts of ordinances in conflict with the provisions of this ordinance be, and the same are hereby repealed and annulled.

"FIRE POLICE" ARE APPOINTED AT LITTLESTOWN

The following members of the Alpha Fire company, Littlestown, were appointed "fire police" for 1946 at the regular meeting of the Littlestown borough council May 28: Reid C. Eppelman, Donald Feaser, Everett Feaser, Harold Sparver, Robert Eckenrode, Richard Adams, Charles W. Snyder, Luther Hankey and Robert Weaver. They were recommended by the fire company and their names submitted to the council.

The street committee reported that, due to the wet weather, limbs on the shade trees overhanging the streets, and sidewalks had lowered, and council took action to request that all property holders who had shade trees in front of their homes trim them so that when the branches are wet they hang no lower than seven feet over the sidewalks and 15 feet over the roadway.

The secretary reported that the recently purchased tar kettle had been received but had not been placed in operation, due to the weather, but would be in operation soon. A discussion was held regarding obtaining a grade and curb line from the state highway department for West King street (McSherry annex) and the secretary was instructed to write the state again.

Water Main Bids Asked
A report was made on the cost of trench excavation for the six-inch water main on Prince street, North Queen street and the Bonneville road. Since there was only one price available and the cost greater than $500, it was agreed that bids be advertised by the secretary. The latter reported he had collected $4,900 to date in water rents.

Water permits were issued to the following: Paul C. Worley, Littlestown R. 2, for 112-114 East King street; Mrs. Bertha E. Long, 152 East King street.

Building permits were granted to the following: Charles E. Bupp, repair sidewalk West King street; E. C. Sauerhammer, 69 West King street, painting and repairing; Charles C. Miller, 75 North Queen street, repair six dwellings on Cemetery street, East King street, West King street and North Queen street; John Stuller, South Queen street, paint and remodel brick dwelling for Plus Kuhn estate, Cemetery street; W. D. Shoemaker, Littlestown garage, 15 North Queen street, paint; Roger J. Keefer, 32 North Queen street, paint and repair; Mrs. Mary E. Erb, Taneytown R. 1, dismantled frame barn rear of Eagles on West King street; I. H. Crouse and Sons, to construct canopy over driveway for Keystone Milling company; Rodney N. Smith, 46 Crouse park, build garage, repair dwelling; Charles A. Hofe, 121 East King street, remodel dwelling at 130 Lumber street; Ralph E. Wantz, Taneytown, construct dwelling on West King street extended; W. E. Sittes, 229 North Queen street, construct driveway rear of dwelling; Roy E. Shoemaker, 335 East King street, construct poultry house; Mrs. Mary C. Mehring, 147 Lumber street, repair and paint frame dwelling; Harry G. Myers, repair barn rear of 134 West King street.

Defer Buying Furnace
Burgess Charles R. Mehring reported fines and permits receipts totaling $23. The secretary reported receipt of $15 from Harry T. Hartar, judge of elections, second ward, for use of the Alpha building. Council turned $5 over to the Alpha janitor and retained the remainder for the borough. A discussion was held regarding estimates requested for installing a heating system in the Alpha building. Only one was received, and action was postponed to get further estimates.

Total borough expenditures for May were shown as $1,638.29 and water fund expenditures for May $3,984.04.

Miss Betty Eyerl will be the leader at the weekly meeting of the Christian Endeavor society of St. Paul's Lutheran church Sunday evening. Two more meetings will be held, after which the society will adjourn until fall.

Heroes Of Revolution Are Among The Honored Dead In Cemetery Near Littlestown

The flags are bright against the green of the well kept sod in the cemetery.

Memorial day has gone, but they fly bravely still, marking the resting places of those who went to the defense of their country in many wars.

Littlestown's Christ Church stands in the midst of an almost sea of flags for here are the men of the Revolution, and the men who fought in the Civil War and those who saw duty in later wars. It is but one cemetery among hundreds in the county where the flags are still waving and where Thursday thousands of people gathered to memorialize the lives of those who fought for their country.

band concert at Charles and Baltimore Street, 6 to 8:30 p. m.; dance, 8:30 to 11:30 p. m. The people of the town are asked to decorate homes and business places with flags and bunting for the occasion. The finance committee will solicit industries and business places for funds to cover expenses of the celebration.

"Hier Rubet In Gott" the sons of Germany who came to America to find freedom and equality and who marched from the frontier lands of what was to become Adams county to fight in the Revolution. And "Here rests in God" the Scotch-Irish who found the Germans good comrades in arms in French and Indian and in Revolutionary war days and who learned to "like the Dutch" because both were seeking the same thing—the elusive life of freedom and democracy.

Flags Mark Graves
The golden circle and the flag that marks the Revolutionary hero flies over the graves, at Christ church, of such men as 1st Lt. Johan Jacob Von Kuitzmiller, born in 1731 and who died in 1803.

And there is a flag too flying above a GAR marker for Edmund Sell "killed by Mosby's Guerrillas near Winchester November 16, 1864, aged 18."

The flags fly, bright red for the blood men shed for freedom, bright blue for the ideals for which they fought, white for the purity of their intentions, over the graves, bright symbol of a grateful nation.

There can be no list of the men who fought in the Revolution. The hard fisted, strong men who long before the revolution felt the call for freedom and who answered the call of Washington in such numbers that many companies had to be returned because the number was far greater than the facilities for handling them. The records kept by the army then were not complete. The DAR has found out the names of most of the men from Adams county, but so many records are incomplete that it would be impossible to list them all.

A check of the markers in Christ church cemetery Memorial day disclosed the names of many of the veterans from the oldest Protestant church in that section of the county.

Among them were John George Kitzmiller, who died March 10, 1824 aged 85; Philip Rahn, who died March 6, 1837, aged 79; Lieutenant von Kuitzmiller, Peter Crabbe, who died October 27, 1841, aged 96; Andrew Shriver, who died September 14, 1823 at the age of 74, all heroes of the Revolution.

Civil War Veterans
There were men from the Civil War, whose marker variously state, GAR and 1861-1865. Among them are Levi King, Edward Rebert, who died in 1886 at the age of 64; Lewis Carbaugh, who was 63 when he died in 1897; Jacob N. H. Gobrecht, who died in 1895 at the age of 63; Joseph Crabbe who died in 1913 at the age of 79; Charles Newman, who was 71 when he died in 1899; Isaac Sheely, aged 64 at death February 12, 1898, Washington King, aged 55 when he died in 1890; John Rebert, who died in 1918 at 80 years of age; Adam Carl who was 64 when he died in 1894; Levi Fisher, who died in 1903 and was a private in Company E of the Pennsylvania Volunteers; John Cline who died in 1909 at the age of 69 and Edward Krumrine, who died in 1928 at the age of 85.

Nor are these the only heroes. There are many flags in that cemetery, and many more in the other cemeteries in the Littlestown area for the section gave generously of its men and fortune in the times of the nation's needs.

Among other Revolutionary heroes in Christ church cemetery are:

Pioneer Names
Jacob Will, who was 74 when he died October 27, 1812; John Crouse, whose death occurred August 30, 1807; Jacob Wintrod, whose marker says he passed away on February 2, 1797 and Johann Adam Wintrod, who reached the venerable age of 75 before he died on August 30, 1815.

Others include John Weikert, who was 77 when he died September 26, 1839, John Michael Kuntz and Conrad Dutera, Andreas Schreier, who died August 12, 1797 and Jacob Schreier, whose date of death is listed as October 26, 1793; Peter Jung; Jacob Weaver, who died in 1808; Frederick Little, Sr., who died August 15, 1811; Jacob Brothers, who died February 24, 1815; Andrew Herzog, May 11, 1817; George Will, July 1, 1837, Jacob Sell and Jacob Biehl, whose death occurred October 9, 1815.

On Decoration Day, 1946, we joined with the people of Littlestown and with the people of this nation in paying tribute to our honored dead and to our returning service men and women.

In this year of peace, let us not forget the ideals our men and boys have fought for. Let us help bind all of the nations of the world together — for everlasting peace, so that these men shall not have died in vain; so that others will not have to lie on fields of battle in the future.

Those who died on the fields of battle asked nothing in return. Yet . . . Deep in the heart of every man of them, there was a desire that all nations of this Earth should live in peace as good neighbors.

On May 30, we observed Memorial Day, 1946, with a feeling of greater safety, of relative security.

It is to our honored dead we owe the quiet hours we now spend. It is to our honored dead we owe an honest effort to bring all of the peoples of this World to live together in close harmony.

For Heroes of all Wars

On Memorial Day, 1946, we again enjoyed the priceless blessing of peace. The occasion has been observed with a feeling of greater security—and with the deepest gratitude to the heroes of all wars. This day was especially dedicated to those who lost their lives on fields of battle.

Men are now striving to establish a community of nations, so war may be prevented and people of all lands may live in harmony like good neighbors. If the threat of armed conflict is forever removed, the world will enter upon the bright new era which is our hope—and many priceless lives will not have been sacrificed in vain.

coming over, and were to lay out the line.

Andy laughed: "That will be difficult on some who know not the law in this section."

Then he became serious: "But what will it do to my land if it is found I am in Pennsylvania and not in Maryland, I bought from John Digges."

All Seemed Well Kitzmiller had the answer. "It is said that all established land rights will be respected, whether or not the land lies on one side or the other of the border. It is simply that they wish to know where the border lies."

Andy worried but little about the matter. He had his papers from Digges, the land was fertile and the crops were good. The distillery was doing better and better business. There was for once enough and sufficient to eat and to drink. The boys were growing into manhood and all seemed well for the Shriver clan.

Checking on Line Three years passed and word was received from time to time of the labors of the gang of men who were extending the line from near Philadelphia to the end of the domains of Penn and Baltimore.

He had gone east that fall to see where the line had ended and was curious to see, when the line went by his home, the men, Mason and Dixon, who were in charge of the work. From the lay of the line, as visitors told him, he was sure it would not cross his land but would go somewhere to the south of it.

Then one day several horsemen rode into the farm. Andrew was busy, but not too busy to go with them when he learned their errand.

"We are going to see the Mason-Dixon line," they told him, "it is passing on the line road near Kleina Stedle. They rode into Peter Klein's town, which in time was to become Littlestown, and headed with him southeast to the line road to see the work."

Outside Littlestown they could hear the noise of the work, the felling of trees and then they came upon the camp of the workmen. Charles Mason was directing four men in placing a large dressed stone, of oolitic limestone.

Andy remarked on the stone and Mason told him it was commonly used for building purposes in England but that he had seen nothing like it here. The stones, he told Shriver, were from 3 1/2 to 5 feet in length and all were square.

"This is marker number 67," Mason told the group, "Jeremiah Dixon is up ahead with the group laying out the line. Perhaps if you wish to ride westward you can see them."

Andy wondered that some of the stones were different from the others.

Special Crown Stones "The mile markers are simply numbered, and then every five miles we place a crown stone," Mason said, "the crown stones have the coat of arms of the Penns on the side facing Pennsylvania and the Baltimore's coat on the other side."

The men heaving at the marker finally got it into place. It stood directly in the middle of the line road. Mason told them to load another stone in the wagon and continue on up the vista.

Andy said: "What is this, this vista?" Mason grinned: "You see where we have cut out the trees along the way we are to go. That is the 'vista', so we can see through along the line, and also can get the wagons through."

Explains Procedure They rode for a while with Mason and then left him, heading on west. Near the trail leading off to Baltimore they saw a mound laid out to receive the next marker. Some distance farther on they saw Dixon. His hat was pushed back on his forehead and he was waving at some men on ahead who were dragging a long chain like object, with long links. Andy looked closer. The line was a chain of short metal rods linked together at regular intervals so that it could be folded. One man used a metal pin to fasten the one and then the other pulled out the chain to its full length and moved about on the end until Dixon who was sighting over a compass gave him the signal to stand still.

Then the spot was marked and the business began all over again.

Dixon wiped his brow and talked for a moment to the group with Andrew.

"It is not too difficult work," he said, "although sometimes when we have to go around lakes or other objects we find it somewhat complicated. Then you simply make a 90 degree angle, go off as far as necessary to pass the obstacle. Then you make another 90 degree turn, go straight ahead until you have passed the object make another 90 degree turn and come back the same distance as you went out on the first turn. Thus you are back on line and know the exact distance. Is that clear?"

Andy's eyes revealed his bewilderment. Dixon laughed again. "It's really very simple but I wonder not that it is confusing presented thus. However, if you want a clearer explanation speak to young Moses McClean."
